1st Grade News

"The purpose of education is to replace an empty mind with an open one."- Malcolm Forbes

Mrs. King's Class

Today's Date:
February 6, 2017

Dates to Remember:

February 8th

Early release

February 9th & 10th

No School

February 10th

School Carnival @ 5pm

March 13th-17th

Spring Break

Last Month We...

Language Arts

- Students have been working hard to learn their long vowel sounds and identify them in our reading.
- In reading groups, students have been working hard to remember their sight words. We want them to be automatic.
- We have practiced reading and summarizing short stories. Focusing on beginning, middle, and end.
- In writing, the students are working on opinion writing.

Math

- Our class did an amazing job in Chapter 7: creating and reading graphs. We have started learning about measurement and time.
- For the hundredth day of school students completed multiple tasks that required them to count to 100. In some activities they have to skip count by 5's and 10's to 100.
- Students completed 100 coin flips, tallying heads or tails.

Homework

- Only homework this week (due to the short week) is to read their baggie books.
- Baggie books are due this Wednesday!

Please keep reading at home!

Our class will exchange valentine's cards on Tuesday, February 14th. Please review additional handout for more information.

Are you smarter than a first grader? (If returned students get a dojo point)
Discuss with your student: What are the three reasons authors write books?

1._____

2._____

3._____

A note from Mrs. King!

Our class is in need of glue sticks. We complete a lot of hands-on activities that involve cutting, sorting, and gluing. Unfortunately, we have used all our glue sticks. If you are able to donate some glue sticks to the class, that would be greatly appreciated. Thank you,

Mrs. King